Dear GEM University & Employer Reps:

The GEM Fellowship Review Panel is in need of volunteer judges that meet the criteria outlined in the message below, that have expertise in the following major disciplines. We need your assistance in identifying judges to ensure we have full coverage for a successful review of eligible applications.

- Aerospace Engineering
- Biomedical Engineering
- Chemical Engineering (2 Judges Needed)
- Civil Engineering (2 Judges Needed)
- Computer Engineering
- Computer Science
- Electrical Engineering
- Industrial Engineering
- Mathematics
- Mechanical Engineering
- Physics (Or other applied science)

Each year, GEM convenes an esteemed panel of industry technical researchers and university faculty to ensure every eligible complete applicant receives two full reviews of their entire application. Each complete application will receive a composite score that is used to determine placement with your organization for potential selection. Nominating yourself or a resource from your organization provides a competitive advantage in the selection process, providing understanding the level of talent in a field of interest available in this year's GEM pool.

We are requesting that you nominate individuals within your organization to volunteer to serve as a judge on the 2018 GEM Fellowship Cycle Review Panel. SELF NOMINATIONS ARE ACCEPTED. Please nominate as many eligible judges that your organization is willing to support for this meeting.

Nominated Judges must:

- hold a Master's or PhD in engineering, computer science or other applied science field (math, chemistry, physics, nuclear, aerospace),
- be willing and available to travel to GEM Headquarters in Alexandria, Virginia to conduct this review on site,
- be eager to thoroughly review approximately 40 applications via a computer application,
- have full financial support (transportation, hotel and non-provided meals) to attend this meeting, and
- be passionate about the GEM mission.
